The Lucille Creek Trail runs through Powder Springs for over a mile, traveling along the western bank of its namesake waterway

The Lucille Creek Trail runs through Powder Springs for over a mile, traveling along the western bank of its namesake waterway for most of its journey. It's a nicely shaded, paved pathway with views of wetlands and access to Powder Springs Park. The majority of the trail winds it way north/south through the woods along the creek, before turning into a sidepath along Powder Springs Dallas Road that leads into the core of the community.

Just east of the Florence Road Trailhead, the trail makes an important connection to the popular Silver Comet Trail that stretches 61 miles from Atlanta to the Georgia/ Alabama state line.
