The pleasantly tree-lined Warren Bike Path, built along the former Warren-Fall River Railroad, runs just under a mile from Long Road west to the Kickemuit River. The trail ends in an 18-acre park along the river known as The Meadows, which offers grassy areas in which to picnic or play.

To either side of the paved pathway is a school—Kickemuit Middle School and Hugh Cole Elementary School—as well as Warren Recreation Park, so the trail offers a safe route for children to travel.

Less than two miles west of the trail, across the river, lies the East Bay Bike Path, a beautiful and popular Hall-of-Fame Trail stretching from Bristol to Providence. Future plans call for a connection between the two. The bike path is also hoped to extend farther east to the Massachusetts border.
