The Roswell Riverwalk is a dedicated, off-road path running for 7 miles along the Chattahoochee River in Roswell, GA. It's a popular trail, lending itself to a range of uses by residents of the nearby suburbs, from morning bike ride or evening jog or weekend walk with the family. It also connects users to the river, particularly at the parks along its length where they can pause and picnic. The trail was recently completed, extending from its previous point at the Chattahoochee Nature Center to Willeo Park. The trail is mostly paved, although this final extension is made up of boardwalk and dirt trails.
