Broad Street Greenway Pennsylvania

The Broad Street Greenway in York is anchored by the Alexander D. Goode Middle School at one end and Hannah Penn Middle School

The Broad Street Greenway in York is anchored by the Alexander D. Goode Middle School at one end and Hannah Penn Middle School at the other. The bike-ped corridor parallels Broad Street in the heart of the city, beginning as an asphalt path occupying the space between the street parking and the sidewalk, and then transitioning into a concrete path after Lincoln Highway. There are benches placed along path, which ends across the street from the York Memorial Park Complex. Aside from everyday walking and biking, the trail also serves as a venue for community events featuring music and family-friendly activities.
