

2024

TrailLink Unlimited

Guides

Farmers' High Line Canal Trail

Colorado

Farmers' High Line Canal Trail

Colorado

Closure Notice: There are two active closures along Farmers' High Line Canal Trail, one at US 85/Santa Fe for the installation of a new commercial areas, and other trails, the trail provides an important local commuter route. From the southern terminus of the trail, it's only a short distance to reach the 10-mile Little Dry Creek Trail. The canal trail also connects to the US 36 Bikeway, which spans 16 miles between Denver and Boulder, and, in Westminster City Park, a short spur links the trail to Big Dry Creek Trail, a 12-mile pathway between I-25 and Standley Lake.

Closure Notice: There are two active closures along Farmers' High Line Canal Trail, one at US 85/Santa Fe for the installation of a new pedestrian bridge, and the Elati Pedestrian Bridge, which is being replaced. See High Line Conservancy for more up to date information.

The Farmers' High Line Canal Trail provides an easy, pleasant way to traverse the northern suburbs of Denver. The paved pathway stretches more than a dozen miles, connecting Westminster, Northglenn, and Thornton. The trail's name comes from the historical canal, built in 1860s, that the trail follows for much of its journey. Views are a mix of quiet, tree-filled neighborhoods, bustling shopping and dining areas, and natural open spaces.

With its numerous connections to parks, schools,

Farmers' High Line Canal Trail

Colorado

States: Colorado

Counties: Adams, Jefferson

Length: 13.7 miles

Trail end points: E. 128th Avenue and Lafayette Street (Thornton) to Standley Lake Regional Park (Westminster)

Trail surfaces: Concrete, Crushed Stone

Trail category: Greenway/Non-RT

Trail activities: Bike, Inline

Skating, Wheelchair Accessible, Walking

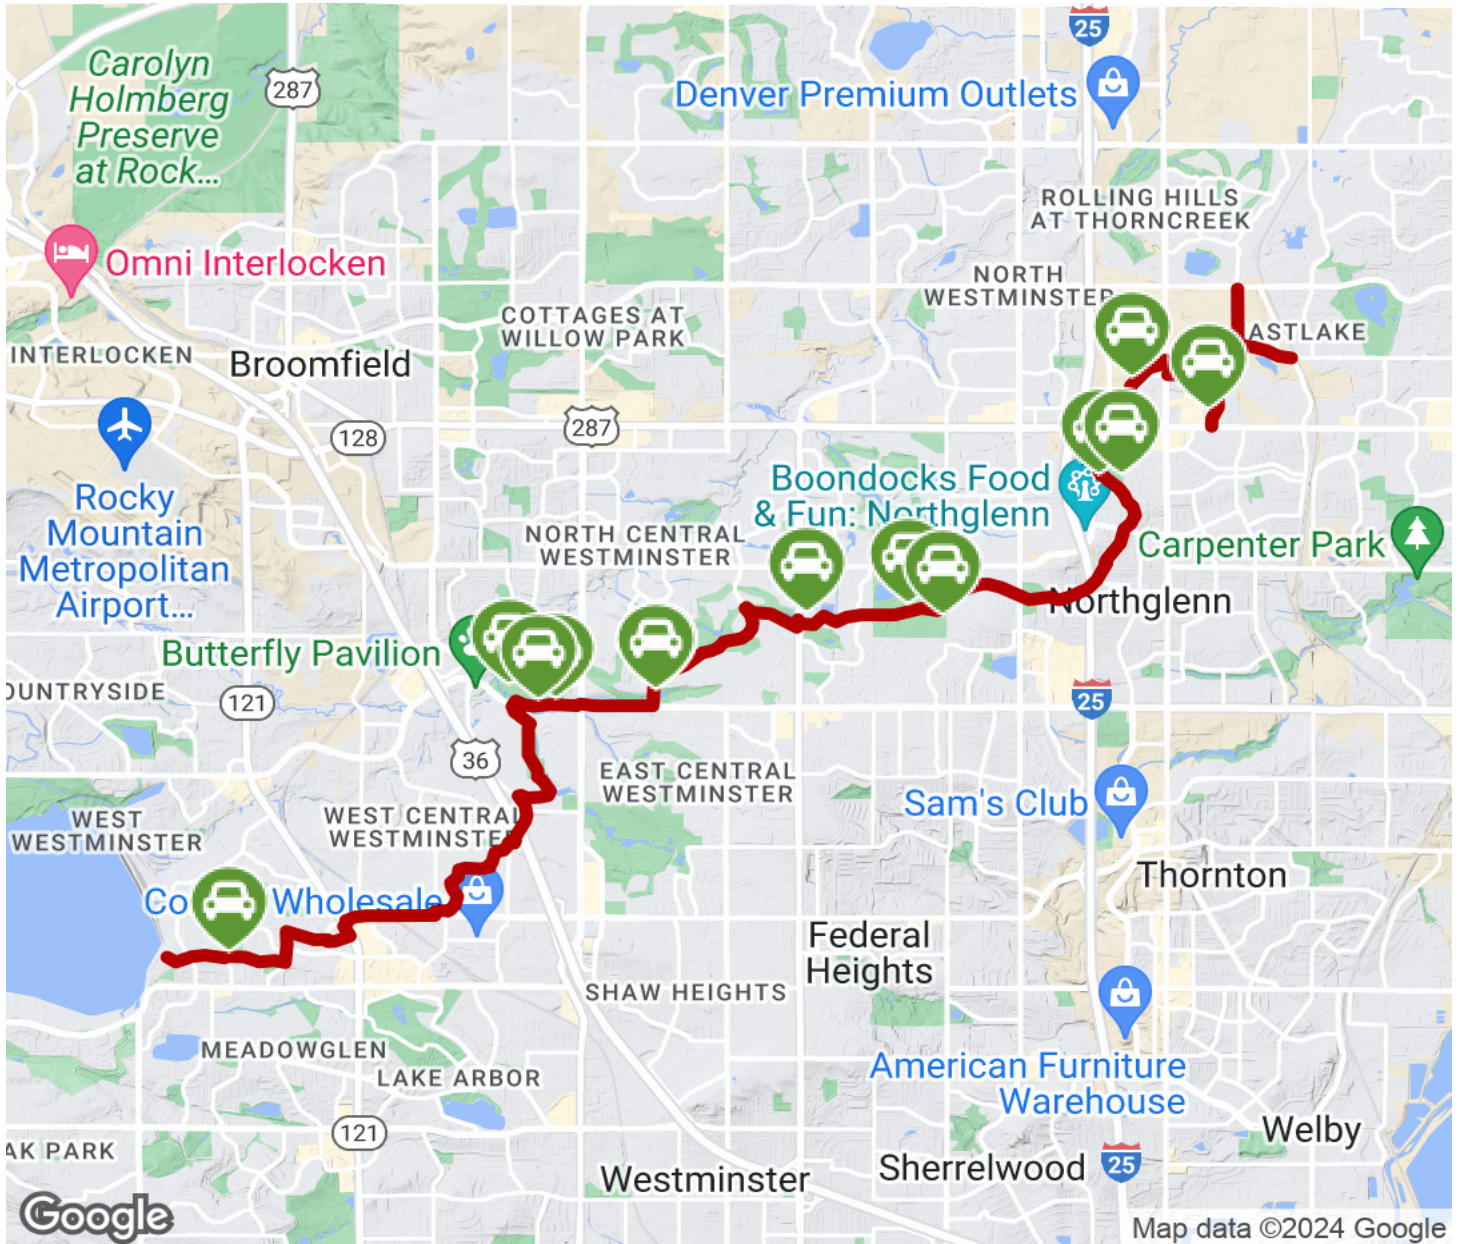

Parking & Trail Access

Parking is available at several of the parks along the route (from west to east): Kings Mill Park (9018 Field St., Westminster), Westminster City Park (10455 Sheridan Blvd., Westminster; restrooms are also available here), Northwest Open Space (2100 W. 112th Ave., Northglenn), and E.B. Rains Jr. Memorial Park (located across from Northglenn's city hall at 11701 Community Center Dr.).

Farmers' High Line Canal Trail

Colorado

Trailhead

Restroom

Parking

Water Fountain

Tunnel

TrailLink
by Rails-to-Trails Conservancy

TrailLink.com