The Pontchartrain Lakefront Trail runs for 13.3 miles between Metairie and Kenner along the southern shore of Lake Pontchartrain. Between Grandlake Estates Neighborhood and Bucktown Harbor Marina, it offers stunning views of the lake, the Lake Pontchartrain Causeway Bridge, and access to various lakefront attractions.

About the Route

The western endpoint of the Pontchartrain Lakefront Trail picks up at Grandlake Boulevard's southern dead end on the north side of I-10, opposite the Louis Armstrong New Orleans International Airport. Running along the western edge of Kenner, the trail follows the Duncan Canal northern to the lake. Curving east, the trail follows the lakeshore to the marina. There are pedestrian/bike bridges over the outfall canals and an underpass beneath Causeway Boulevard. Access the trail at either end and at most of the major north/south streets, like Causeway.

Several short spur trails provide connections with the neighborhood along the route. The trail passes by several parks, playgrounds, and water access. Restrooms and other amenities are available at Laketown Park and the Bonnabel Boat Launch. Paved, wide, and flat, the trail is likely accessible for those using mobility devices and easily navigable for families with strollers.

In addition to offering various recreational opportunities, the off-road trail also serves as an alternative recreational transportation link for the surrounding communities. It provides a safe and pleasant route for pedestrians and cyclists to navigate the area while accessing local businesses, schools, and several dining and shopping options.

There is plenty of flora and fauna to admire while on the trail. The lakefront is home to various wildlife, including multiple species of waterfowl. Explore the Pontchartrain Lakefront Trail any time of day and enjoy stunning views of the water, which are particularly dramatic from sunrise to sunset.
