The Lower Roswell Trail is a 2.8-mile dedicated sidepath in Marietta, Georgia. The asphalt pathway begins at the top of Lower Roswell Road (at Willeo Road) and runs through pristinely landscaped suburban neighborhoods, with a connection to the Gold Branch hiking trails in the Chattahoochee River National Recreation Area (NRA) in the upper half of the trail.

At its southern endpoint, it also provides access to commercial Marietta with a wide range of businesses.

Cobb and Fulton Counties will be re-doing the bridge on Willeo Road and constructing a new bike lane as well as a dedicated trail to extend the Roswell Riverwalk up to the Lower Roswell Trail. Right now, though it is a short on-street ride up Willeo Road to the Riverwalk.
