If you are looking for an extended out-and-back ride, then consider the Okeechobee Road (State Route 70) multiuse path. It's 20 miles of pavement one-way along the busy highway between Fort Pierce and Okeechobee, Florida. There's not really any amenities along it so if you need water you will have to carry it. It's also unshaded so sun protection is key for any cyclist or pedestrian. The scenery changes from suburban/ industrial in Fort Pierce to more rural as the trail continues west.
