playground and picnic area. The main trail continues north along the rail corridor, then turns to head east alongside a series of sports fields for the local middle school and high school - making the trail a great option for students to walk or bike to school. Continuing as a sidepath alongside 19th Avenue and then N State Street, the trail then crosses over to the north side of 22nd Ave. NW and heads towards the entrance to the city's Northeast Park and the Waseca Water Park, which offers an abundance of great recreation opportunities. The trail turns north along the edge of the park before crossing the road again and heading east, providing trail access to a small neighborhood, before coming to an end at a cul-de-sac.

Largely constructed on a former rail corridor running north/south out of the city of Waseca, the Loon Lake Trail is a short but sweet trail that provides residents with off-road access to important destinations like local parks and schools. Named after the lake that lies to the west of the path, the trail offers a pleasantly tree-lined route that allows for some natural tranquility, running past quiet neighborhoods in the small Minnesota town.

The southern end of the trail begins near the center of town, not far from the still active railroad tracks that this rail-trail once branched off from. Heading north, the trail passes by its namesake lake and through a forested field, crossing over three local roads on its way to the city's Northwest Park. A short stub of trail heads off to the east in the park, giving trail users access to the park's
