Southtowne Trail

Georgia

South of downtown Atlanta in the Lakewood Heights neighborhood, the scenic Southtowne Trail provides over two miles of paved trail, picks up again near the river, heading south along the outskirts of the adjacent golf course and down to Cleveland Avenue, where the Rosel Fann Recreation Center lies just across the street. Offering a variety of indoor recreation activities, the recreation center makes a great stopping point for your trail journey, although the trail does continue a bit further east along the road before turning into a normal sidewalk. The Southtowne Trail helps link nearby residents to a number of recreation sites, and provides access to some beautiful Georgia scenery, a sure draw for people from all across the area and beyond.

South of downtown Atlanta in the Lakewood Heights neighborhood, the scenic Southtowne Trail provides over two miles of paved trail, passing through some of the area's prettiest natural lands around the South River. The trail begins in the north in South Bend Park, a lovely recreation site with a seasonal outdoor pool and a local arts and culture center. The trail threads through wooded lands near quiet residential neighborhoods, leading into the Swann Nature Preserve, where you can disappear into nature for a good while.

The trail leaves the preserve at Bromack Drive - trail users can follow this low-stress neighborhood road east for about a quarter-mile to reach the next segment of the Southtowne Trail, although it should be noted that the road does not have sidewalks or bike lanes. The paved trail
