The Murray Run Greenway winds through a section of the City of Roanoke. The greenway trail is multipurpose, with a varying surface of cinder, woodchips and concrete sidewalk. The width of the trail also changes from point to point. As it meanders, it links three parks; Fishburn Park is the southernmost one, and features additional natural surface trails, tennis courts, picnic amenities and restrooms. The next park is Woodlawn Park, where the greenway cuts a swathe through the close trees. The greenway continues north to Shrine Hill Park, ending at the parking lot.
