For pedestrians and cyclists, highways like I-565 are a no-go. Enter the Redstone Gateway Greenway (alternatively known as EUL greenway), a short and developing trail designed to connect destinations on both sides of the interstate. At present, the asphalt trail begins at a trailhead on Governors West, then parallels that road and passes under I-565, with a small portion of it paralleling a short railroad spur. At the south end, the trail connects to the Redstone Gateway office park. Future plans see the trail extended north to Madison Pike and to shopping and employment centers.
