Riverside Park Trail (SD)

South Dakota

Located along the banks of the Missouri River in the city of Yankton, the appropriately-named Riverside Park Trail is a history buffs will want to check out a replica of the Dakota Territorial Capitol.

The trail continues along the perimeter of a water treatment facility, then turns away from the wide river to head north along the Marne Creek. This scenic natural corridor offers a pleasant trail experience, taking trail users along the eastern edge of downtown Yankton and up to the start of the Auld-Brokaw Trail, which continues to follow the creek for several miles through the community.

Located along the banks of the Missouri River in the city of Yankton, the appropriately-named Riverside Park Trail is a concrete, multi-use pathway that runs through the city's Riverside Park. The trail offers cyclists and pedestrians a pleasant path with ample views of the beautiful river ecosystem, as well as the charming community of Yankton, and connects to the Auld-Brokaw Trail, the anchor of Yankton's excellent trail system.

Starting in the west, the trail begins in the shadow of the Discovery Bridge, which was built to provide a span across the river to replace the nearby, aging Meridian Bridge - a historic vertical lift bridge that has now been converted into a trail for non-motorized use. Continuing along the river, you enter the heart of the park property, which is home to a variety of recreation activities and facilities -
