This is a shared use path that runs alongside a major north-south conduit through Blue Springs, Missouri. The trail is a hearty 5.7 miles from end-to-end. The trail is a mix of concrete and asphalt paving, and is suitable for many uses. In fact, the amenities along the trail speak to the myriad ways residents take advantage of this local trail: there's bike parking, benches, dog waste bags and trash receptacles, water fountains for humans and dogs alike, public art and trail lighting. As it heads south, the trail passes by residential areas and business before transitioning to wide grassy fields and farms.
