The Rocky Hill Trail weaves through the tranquil greenery of the Burts Bog Greenway Conservation Area in Northampton, Hampshire County. The 121-acre peat bog is an ecologically sensitive site that's home to rare turtle species, which is why it was designated as a protected natural area in 2017. The multi-use trail stretches just short of a mile, beginning on Sandy Hill Road and winding south to Burts Pits Road. A short branch at about the midpoint reaches west to Overbrook Drive, allowing those neighbors to access the trail from there.

The Rocky Hill Trail is part of the Rocky Hill Greenway system, which will eventually connect to the Manhan Rail Trail.
