The Foxfire contributes 2.4 miles to Rogers developing system of trails and greenways. The paved, multipurpose path connects Rogers residents to the Razorback Regional Greenway. The trail begins on Walnut Street, continuing from the south end of the Turtle Creek Trail, and takes a winding route west and south to the Razorback. The trail starts off close to Osage/ Turtle Creek but diverts away, finding the creek again near its southern terminus. The creek is mostly obstructed by tall vegetation, although you can get a glimpse of it on the one bridge crossing. Some parts of the route are shaded and cool, while other parts are exposed. There are rest areas provided at various points along the trail, featuring seating, bike parking, trash and water fountains.
