The Fort Weaver Bike Path is part of a tangle of street-adjacent trails concentrated in the Ewa neighborhood, near Pearl Harbor on the west side of Oahu. The paved bike path sits along the east side of the road, extending from Farrington Parkway south to Keaunui Drive, where it intersects with another bike and pedestrian trail there. Trees at various stages of maturity provide some respite from the sun, especially along the northern segment of the trail. The bike path is wide and flat, suitable for users of all ages. There are a number of street crossings along the route, however.
