

2026

TrailLink Unlimited

Guides

Park Road Shared-Use Path

Delaware

Park Road Shared-Use Path

Delaware

Located on the marshy northern outskirts of the coastal community of Lewes, the Park Road Shared-Use Path provides a

Located on the marshy northern outskirts of the coastal community of Lewes, the Park Road Shared-Use Path provides a nice stretch of paved trail for cyclists and pedestrians to aid in navigating the area. Constructed along with the roadway in 2014, the trail runs through largely undeveloped land owned by the University of Delaware, providing a slightly more scenic experience than your typical sidepath - the northern end lies at an inlet with views of the Delaware Bay.

The trail currently does not connect to any of the area's other trails or bike infrastructure, so only cyclists comfortable with some road riding will likely find their way to this pathway. For those looking for a more traditional trail experience, the nearby Georgetown-Lewes Rail Trail provides a popular alternative.

Park Road Shared-Use Path

Delaware

States: Delaware

Counties: Sussex

Length: 1.3miles

Trail end points: Pilottown Road to New Road

Trail surfaces: Asphalt

Trail category: Greenway/Non-RT

Trail activities: Bike, Walking, Wheelchair

Accessible

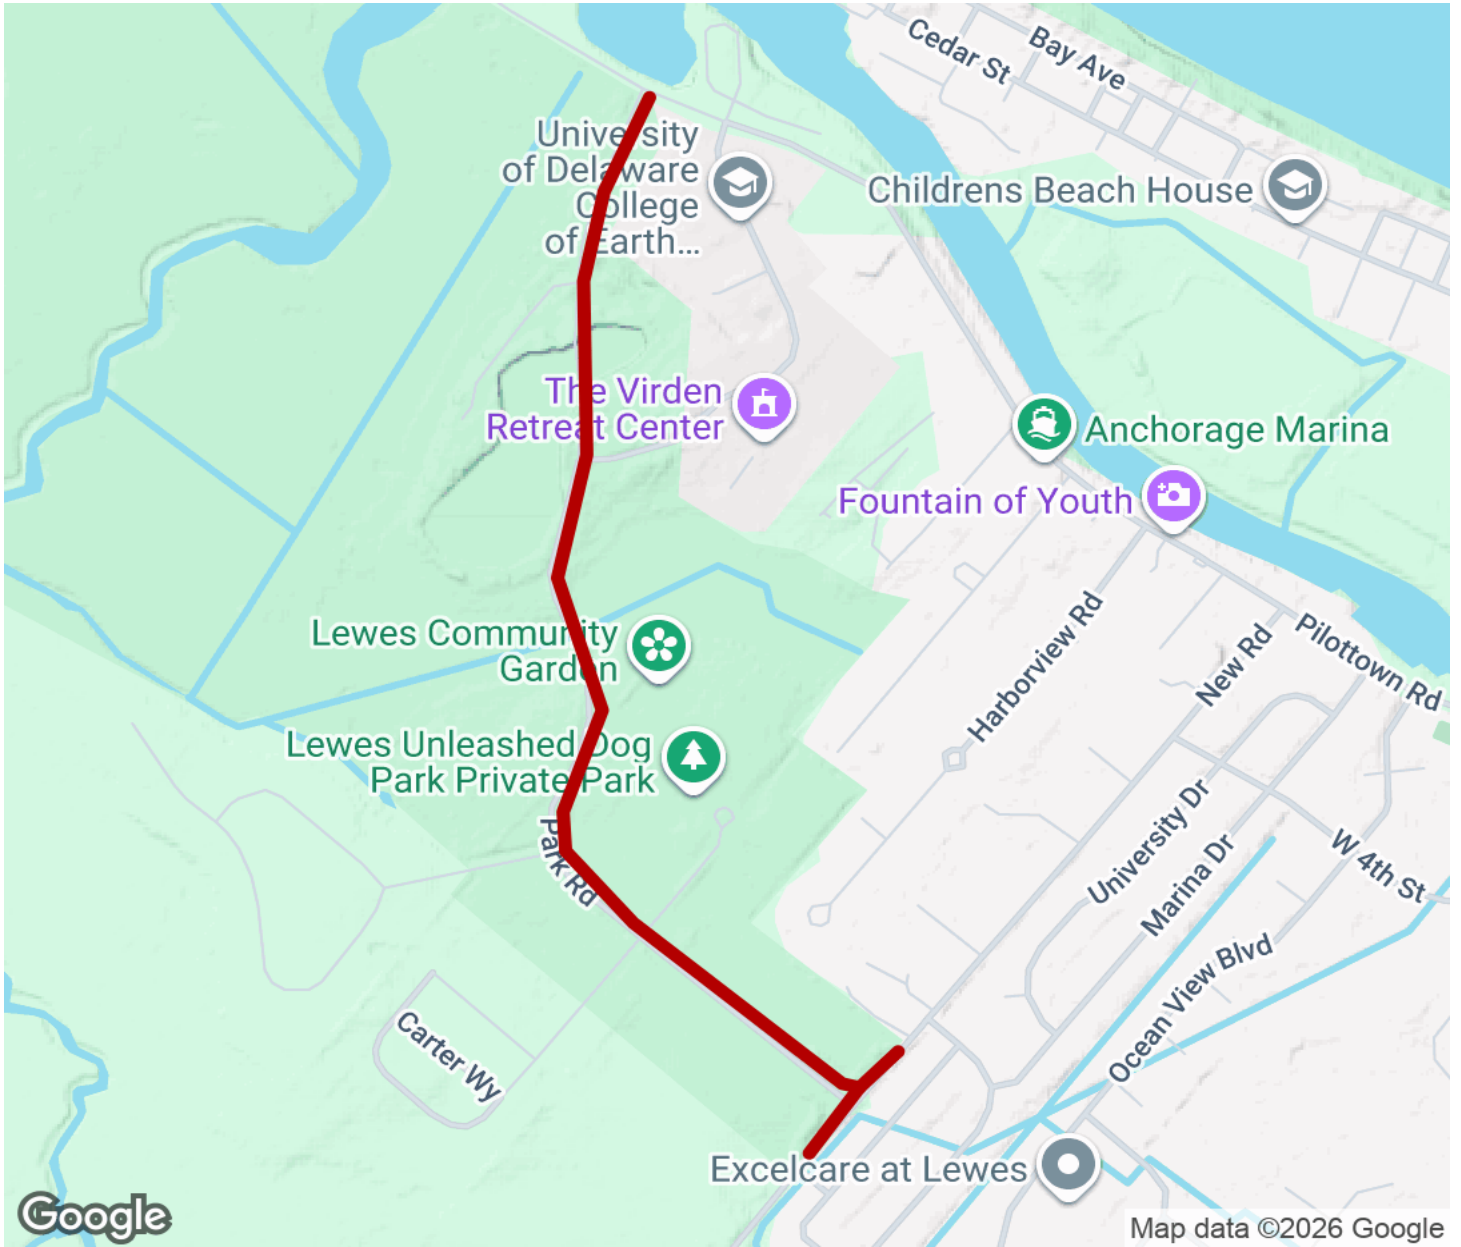

Parking & Trail Access

No dedicated trail parking is provided for this trail; be sure to follow any posted signs and regulations in nearby areas.

Park Road Shared-Use Path

Delaware

Trailhead

Restroom

Parking

Water Fountain

Tunnel