Built on a former railroad track, the Grace Street Greenway is short, but offers those on foot a convenient and pleasant alternative to busier streets. Starting by the intersection of Reynolds Street and Grace Street until it reaches East Cambridge Ave, Grace Street Greenway runs along the backyards of houses and businesses. The trail is popular among nearby residents and students as a convenient connector between town and Lander University. The trail can also be accessed via a Blake Street entrance. The trail is 10ft wide and the surface is granite dust.
