

2025

TrailLink Unlimited 🔯

Guides 🕫 🤝 😲

Greenbelt Plateau Area Trails

Colorado

Take this 15 mile loop around the Greenbelt Plateau Area, a grassland management area with wide open grasslands and insects. Many of these species can be see while on a venture around these trails.

Starting from the Colton Trailhead (moving counterclockwise), the trail mileage is as follows:

- Meadowlark Trail (2.7 miles)
- Mayhoffer-Singletree Trail (2.7 miles)
- Marshall Mesa Trail Loop (2.7 mile loop)
- Greenbelt Plateau Trail (1.4 miles)
- High Plains Trail (2.67 miles)
- Coalton Trail (2.9 miles)

Take this 15 mile loop around the Greenbelt Plateau Area, a grassland management area with wide open grasslands and ponderosa pine savannas. The various trails of the area, including the Coalton Trail, Meadowlark Trail, Mayhoffer-Singletree Trail, Marshall Mesa Trail, High Plains Trail and Greenbelt Plateau Trails, round up to a 15 loop around this expansive preservation area. Much of this area is private agricultural land, so it is important for trail users to stick on the designated trails. Most of this trail is comprised of dirt/stone trails that wrap outside the outside of this expanse.

Situated within the Great Plains habitat, the Greenbelt Plateau Area Trails are home to a variety of plants and wildlife including prairie dogs, deer mice, coyotes, raccoons, red foxes, and many species of birds and

States: Colorado Counties: Boulder Length: 15.07miles

Trail end points: Greenbelt Plateau Trailhead, Rte. 128 to Coalton Trailhead, 3495 McCaslin

Blvd.

Trail surfaces: Dirt

Trail category: Greenway/Non-RT
Trail activities: Bike, Walking

Parking & Trail Access

There is designate parking for this trail at the Coalton Trailhead (3495 McCaslin Blvd, Superior), at the Oerman-Roche Trailhead (414 McCaslin Blvd, Superior) and at the Greenbelt Plateau Trailhead along Rte. 128 near the intersection with Rte. 93.

Greenbelt Plateau Area TrailsColorado

