

2025

TrailLink Unlimited

Guides

McKenzie Trail
California

McKenzie Trail

California

The McKenzie Trail is a paved 1.5-mile rail-trail in Fresno, CA. The accessible trail has a paved concrete surface with a painted line crossings, where caution is advised. The western end of the trail can be accessed from the dead end of E Washington Avenue and from N Clovis Avenue.

The McKenzie Trail is a paved 1.5-mile rail-trail in Fresno, CA. The accessible trail has a paved concrete surface with a painted line down the middle.

About the Route

The McKenzie Trail runs parallel to E McKenzie Avenue and E Washington Avenue through quiet, residential neighborhoods east of downtown Fresno.

From its western end at the intersection of N Willow Avenue & E McKenzie Avenue, the trail heads east past residences, several fields, a few churches and a middle school. Short trail spurs provide connections to the surrounding neighborhoods. The route is sheltered by trees and has lamp posts. There are several road

TrailLink
by Rails-to-Trails Conservancy

TrailLink.com

McKenzie Trail

California

States: California

Counties: Fresno

Length: 1.5miles

Trail end points: N Willow Ave & E McKenzie Ave (Fresno) to E Washington Ave dead end (Fresno)

Trail surfaces: Concrete

Trail category: Rail-Trail

Trail activities: Bike,Inline

Skating,Walking,Wheelchair Accessible

Parking & Trail Access

The McKenzie Trail runs between the intersection of N Willow Ave & E McKenzie Ave (Fresno) and the dead end of E Washington Ave (Fresno).

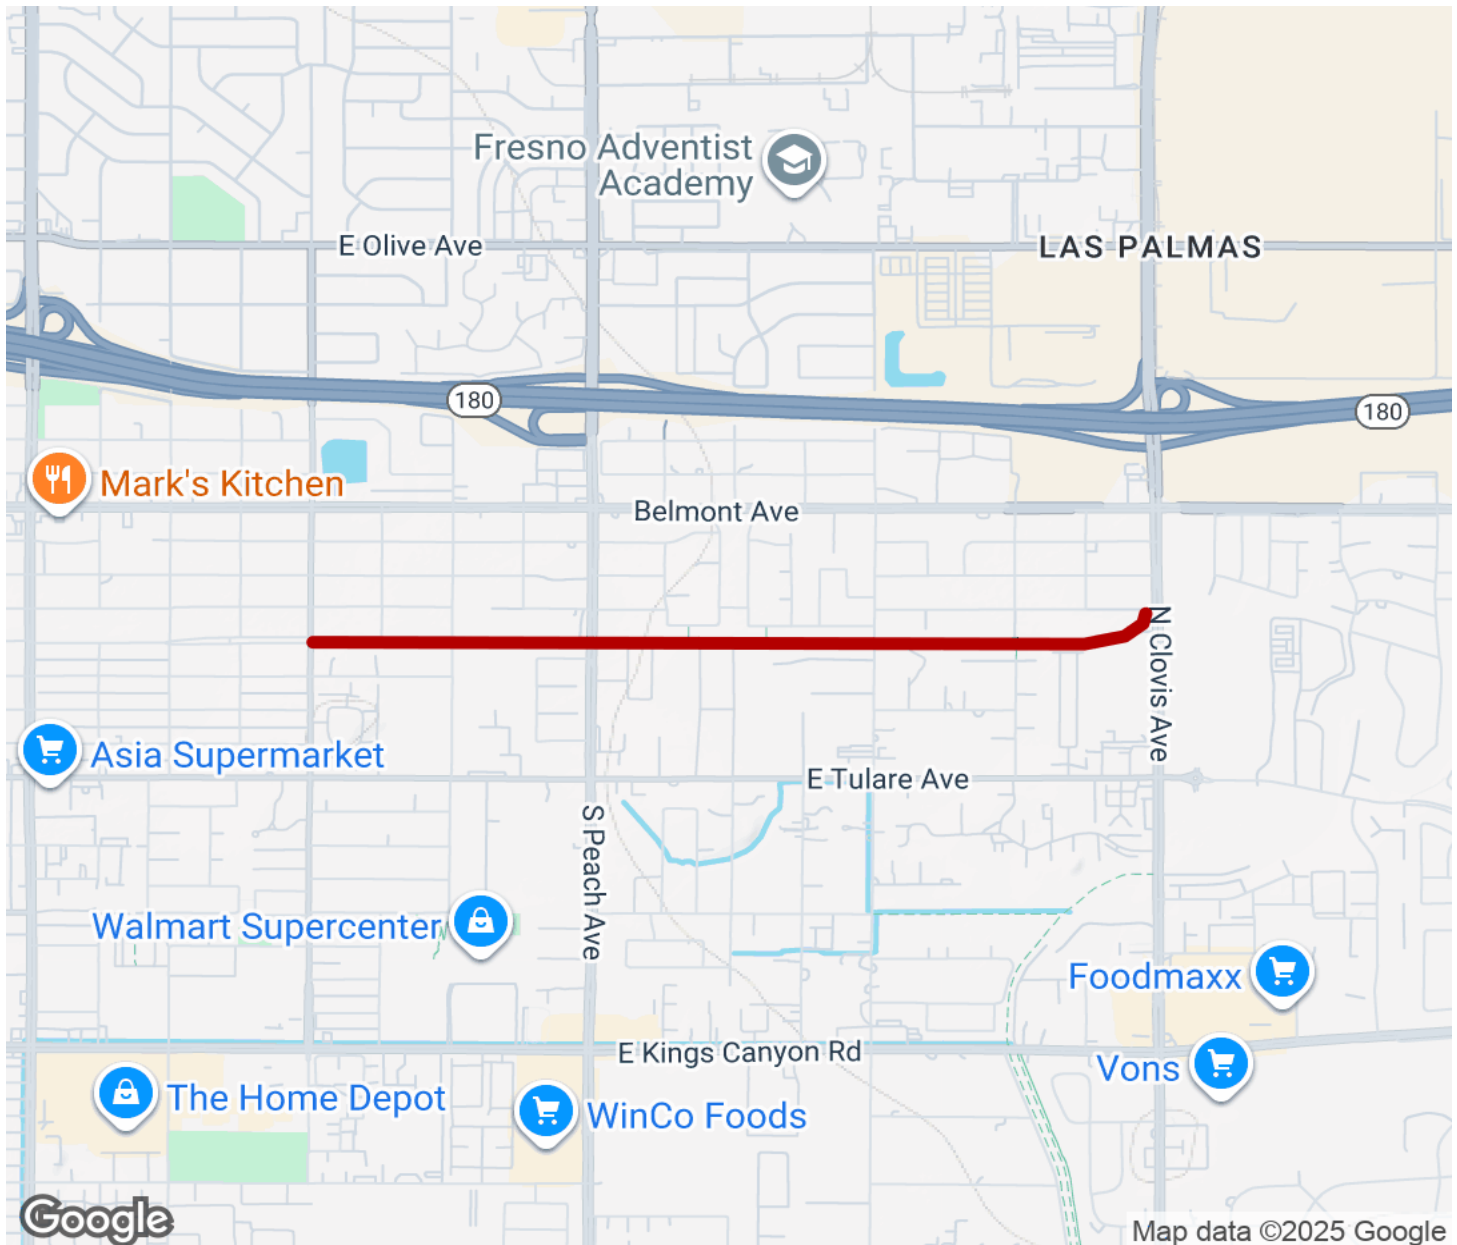

There is no designated parking available along the trail.

Visit the TrailLink map for detailed directions.

McKenzie Trail

California

-  Trailhead
-  Restroom
-  Parking
-  Water Fountain
-  Tunnel