The Centennial Trail offers a 2.9-mile route throughout the heart of Helena, Montana.

About the Route

Leaving from the western end of the trail, which is located at the southern end of Spring Meadow Lake State Park, the trail heads east. This end of the trail offers parking, restrooms, and even more trails to explore. From here, the trail heads through downtown Helena neighborhoods, eventually lining up with active railroad tracks. Then, the trail crosses through Centennial Park and neighboring ballfields, a dog park, and a mountain bike park. East of Centennial Park, the trail passes through the north end of Memorial Park before coming to its eastern end at National Ave.
