The Centennial Trail will take you through multiple landscapes—city parks, urban back yards, forested corridors, open space and wetlands—offering a little something for everyone.

Muskogee's Centennial Trail cuts a sideways U-shape, hugging the west end of the city and comprising three sections, seamlessly connected.

Centennial North runs for 3.5 miles between N. 40th Street (across from Solara Hospital) and N. Main Street near Shawnee. The 2-mile Centennial South section runs from 4th Street downtown near the Oklahoma Music Hall of Fame and Three Rivers Museum heading west to 32nd Street (US 69/64) by the historical Hatbox Airfield, where Charles Lindbergh and Amelia Earhardt had once flown.

The elbow section of the trail, called the Love–Hatbox Sports Complex Loop, joins the north and south segments and includes a circuit totaling 3.5 miles.
