

2025

TrailLink Unlimited

Guides

Blue Ridge
Railroad
Historic Trail
South Carolina

Blue Ridge Railroad Historic Trail

South Carolina

Overview This moderately difficult walk follows the bed of the railroad that was never completed—the American Civil War got in into the mountain. Trail users can walk to the end of the tunnel but it doesn't go all the way through.

As the trail heads to the north, the trail meets its second tunnel just above Isaqueena Falls. The tunnel isn't located along the main trail, instead, trail users should see a spur trail to the left leading to the tunnel. The third tunnel, Saddleback, is not open and this marks the turn-around point on the trail. Trail users traveling along the whole trail must turn around and head back to the Saddleback Tunnel, making the whole trip 4 miles.

Overview

This moderately difficult walk follows the bed of the railroad that was never completed—the American Civil War got in the way of SC Statesman John C. Calhoun's rail dream. They did get as far as starting to build three tunnels into the mountain, however, which added an interesting element to the hike. Be careful, though, the tunnels tend to seep water and a flashlight will come in handy.

About the Route

Leaving off from the southern end of the trail, which is the only access point for this trail, at Stumphouse Tunnel which is 25 feet high, 17 feet wide, and extends 1,617 feet

Blue Ridge Railroad Historic Trail

South Carolina

States: South Carolina

Counties: Oconee

Length: 2miles

Trail end points: Stumphouse Tunnel
(Walhalla) to Saddle Tunnel

Trail surfaces: Boardwalk,Dirt,Woodchips

Trail category: Rail-Trail

Trail activities: Walking

Parking & Trail Access

The Blue Ridge Railroad Historic Trail runs between Stumphouse Tunnel Rd. (Walhalla) and Saddle Tunnel (Walhalla).

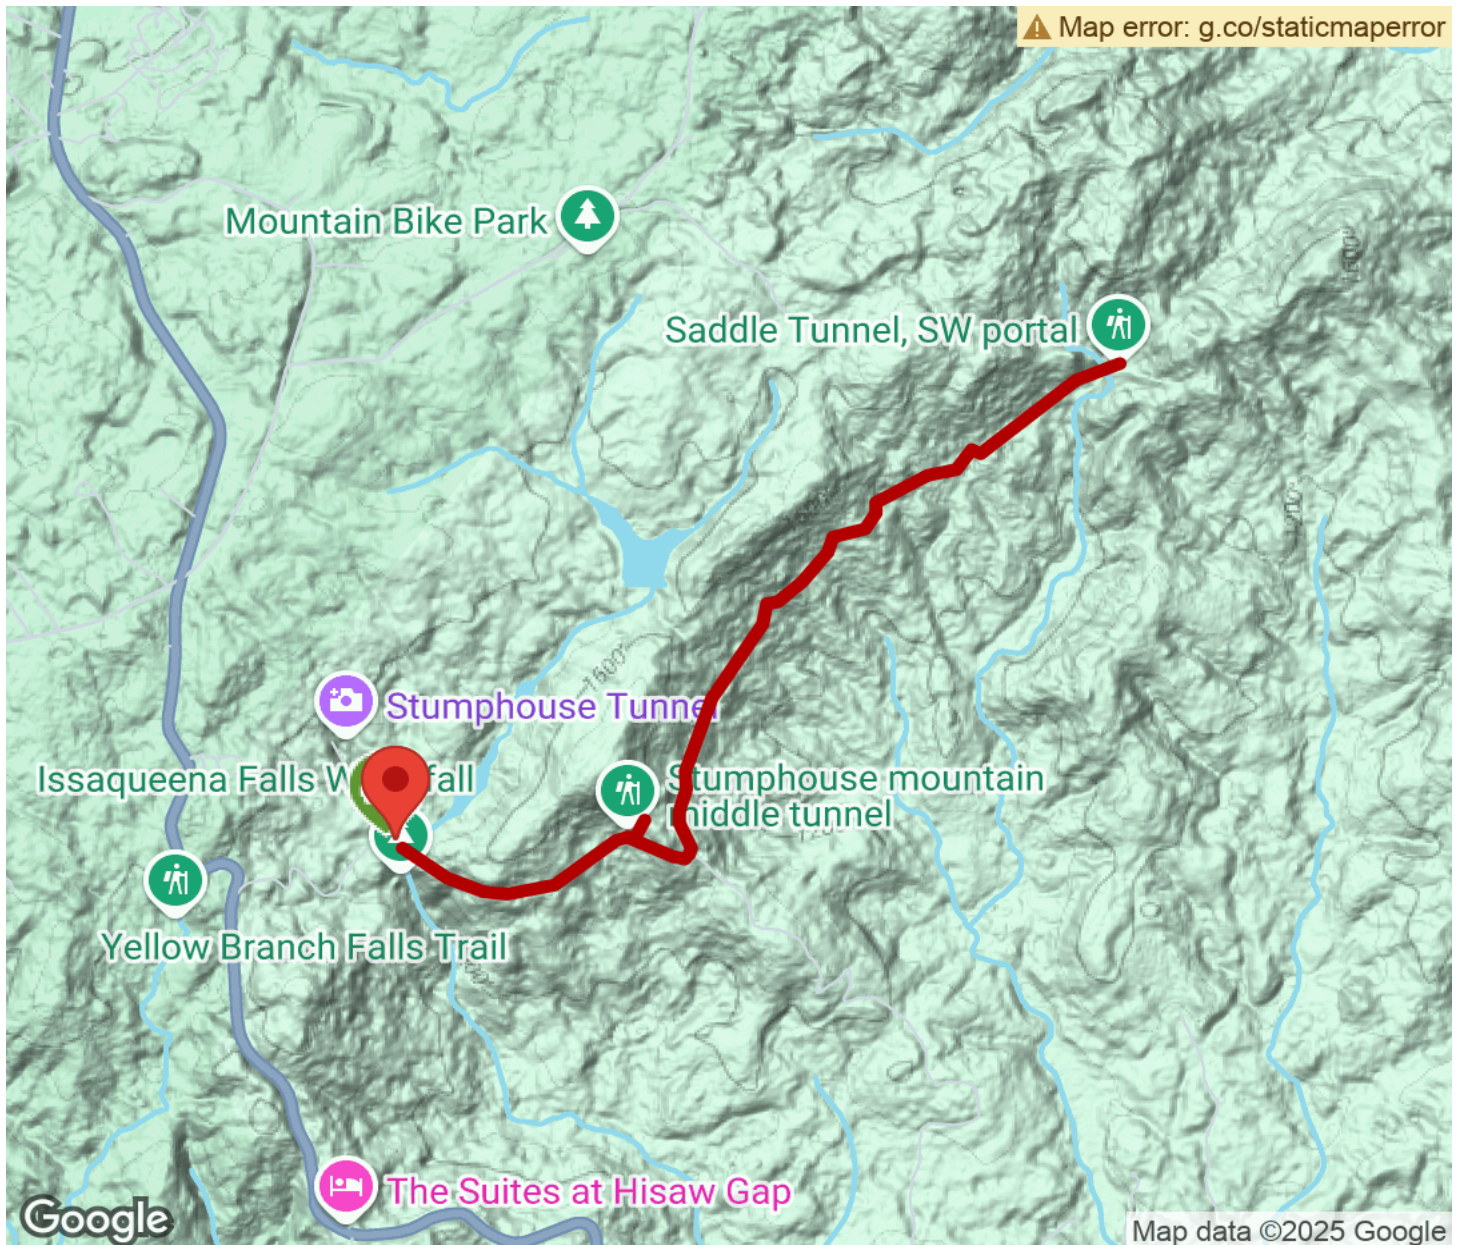

Parking is available at Stumphouse Tunnel Rd., but without an official address.

Please see TrailLink Map for detailed directions.

Blue Ridge Railroad Historic Trail

South Carolina

Trailhead

Restroom

Parking

Water Fountain

Tunnel

TrailLink
by Rails-to-Trails Conservancy

TrailLink.com