Mountain Goat Trail

Tennessee

The Mountain Goat Trail is a 10.4-mile trail through Monteagle and Tracy City, Tennessee. About the Route The Mountain Goat Trail

Sewanee-Monteagle segment, it also threads through wooded settings and past town homes and businesses. There is also a short disconnected segment in Monteagle.

Trail History

The trail follows the former Mountain Goat Railroad, dating back to 1856. The railroad was primarily used to move coal out of the Tennessee mountains, but as the population grew, it also transported people. Eventually, the Sewanee Mining Company rail (later to become CSX) fell into disuse by 1985. The nonprofit Mountain Goat Alliance was created to raise funds and develop the right-of-way rail corridor into a multi-use trail.

The Mountain Goat Trail is a 10.4-mile trail through Monteagle and Tracy City, Tennessee.

About the Route

The Mountain Goat Trail runs in two main segments. The first links Sewanee and Monteagle in Grundy County with a paved pathway stretching nearly six miles. The route parallels busy Highway 41, providing a safer alternative between the towns for pedestrians and bicyclists. It offers a nice mix of both quiet wooded areas and connections to businesses where travelers can grab a drink or a bite to eat.

The Tracy City segment runs from Main Street, along Railroad Avenue, and heads west for 3.8 miles. Like the
