Wildwood Trail

Wisconsin

The Wildwood Trail follows a former railroad right-of-way once owned by the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway Company.

The Wildwood Trail follows a former railroad right-of-way once owned by the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway Company. The trail runs between Woodville and Spring Valley and is open to snowmobilers in winter.

Through Woodville the trail is broken into two segments: one runs between E. Boundary Road and River Street; the other picks up again at Main Street near Solum Drive. The gap is easily bridged along Stene Drive and County Road BB.

South of Woodville the trail passes among a mostly rural setting through a nicely wooded corridor.
