The Pompton Valley Rail Trail is a 5-mile rail-trail that runs through areas of residential, commercial, and industrial

The Pompton Valley Rail Trail is a 5-mile rail-trail that runs through areas of residential, commercial, and industrial development in the townships of Pequannock and Wayne. The majority of the route is lined with trees.

In addition to providing opportunities for recreation, the trail serves as a vital active transportation link for the surrounding communities, connecting neighborhoods, businesses, schools, libraries, parks, transit, and more.

About the Route

From its northern end on River Drive in a wooded area in Pequannock, the trail heads south through the township. Running through a mix of residential neighborhoods and commercial areas, the rail-trail passes a number of parks, including Pequannock Valley Park, Washington Park, and Cherry Street Park. The trail also passes the Museum of Pequannock Township, which is housed in the Pompton Plains Railroad Station (33 Evans Pl, Pompton Plains).

The current southern end is on Newark Pompton Turnpike in Pequannock. When complete, the southern end of the trail will be at the Mountain View Train Station in Wayne.

When complete, the trail will be 4.8 miles running between Pequannock and Wayne. Following the abandoned railroad right-of-way, the northern 4.1 miles of the path will be a 10-foot-wide paved section. Running through environmentally sensitive areas, the southern 0.7-mile section won't follow the right-of-way and will have both paved and boardwalk sections.

Trail History

The trail was built along the inactive railroad bed of the New York, Susquehanna, and Western (NYS&W) Railway. Originally a commuter line, this stretch was later used as the NYS&W's Pompton Industrial Spur.
