New Santa Fe Regional Trail

Colorado

Overview The New Santa Fe Regional Trail provides a scenic almost 18-mile journey along the front range of the mountains,

The trail passes through the town of Monument, where there are restaurants and some shops, as well as through the Air Force Academy, so don't be surprised to see jets overhead.

The trail follows a portion of the former Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad line, which, heading north to south drops 1,200 feet in elevation.

Connections

At the southern end of the trail at Woodmen Road, the New Santa Fe Regional Trail becomes the Pikes Peak Greenway Trail.

Overview

The New Santa Fe Regional Trail provides a scenic almost 18-mile journey along the front range of the mountains, from Palmer Lake Recreation Area in northern El Paso County through the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs.

About the Route

The New Santa Fe Regional Trail is popular among hikers, cyclists (hybrids or mountain bikes would be best-suited to the trail), equestrians and families out for a stroll. Along the way there are interpretive signs, wildlife and interesting geological features, not to mention incredible views, in particular Pikes Peak.
