

2026

TrailLink Unlimited

Guides

Sand Creek
Regional
Greenway
Colorado

Sand Creek Regional Greenway

Colorado

The Sand Creek Regional Greenway follows Sand Creek in Denver's northeast metro area. The southern end of the trail, through Denver

Greenway intersects with the Platte River Trail, near where I-270 crosses the river.

The Sand Creek Regional Greenway follows Sand Creek in Denver's northeast metro area. The southern end of the trail, through Denver and Aurora, has a soft surface, which can make for a dusty ride when it's dry; mountain bikes are best at handling the sandy trail, although the trail is rated as wheelchair accessible. The north end of the trail, in Commerce City, is paved.

Along the route you'll pass through industrial areas and go by a few neighborhoods, parks and small lakes, including Bluff Lake Nature Center, Morrison Nature Center, Urban Farm at Stapleton, Sand Creek Park and Star K Ranch Natural Area, where you can pick up the High Line Canal Trail.

At its northern terminus, the Sand Creek Regional

Sand Creek Regional Greenway

Colorado

States: Colorado

Counties: Adams, Arapahoe, Denver

Length: 14 miles

Trail end points: Platte River Greenway (Commerce City) to High Line Canal at Tower Rd & Colfax Ave (Aurora)

Trail surfaces: Concrete, Crushed Stone

Trail category: Greenway/Non-RT

Trail activities: Horseback Riding, Mountain Biking, Walking, Wheelchair Accessible, Cross Country Skiing

Parking & Trail Access

You can access the Sand Creek Regional Greenway from the Platte River Trail at the former's northern end or from many other places. Parking is available at the places listed below.

Commerce City: the Platte River Trail trailhead on York Avenue, just south of I-270; at Sand Creek Drive and Dahlia, just east of 56th and Vasquez at the intersection of Vasquez and I-270; near the Wetlands Park at 52nd and Ivy.

Stapleton: near the Urban Farm at the end of Smith Road

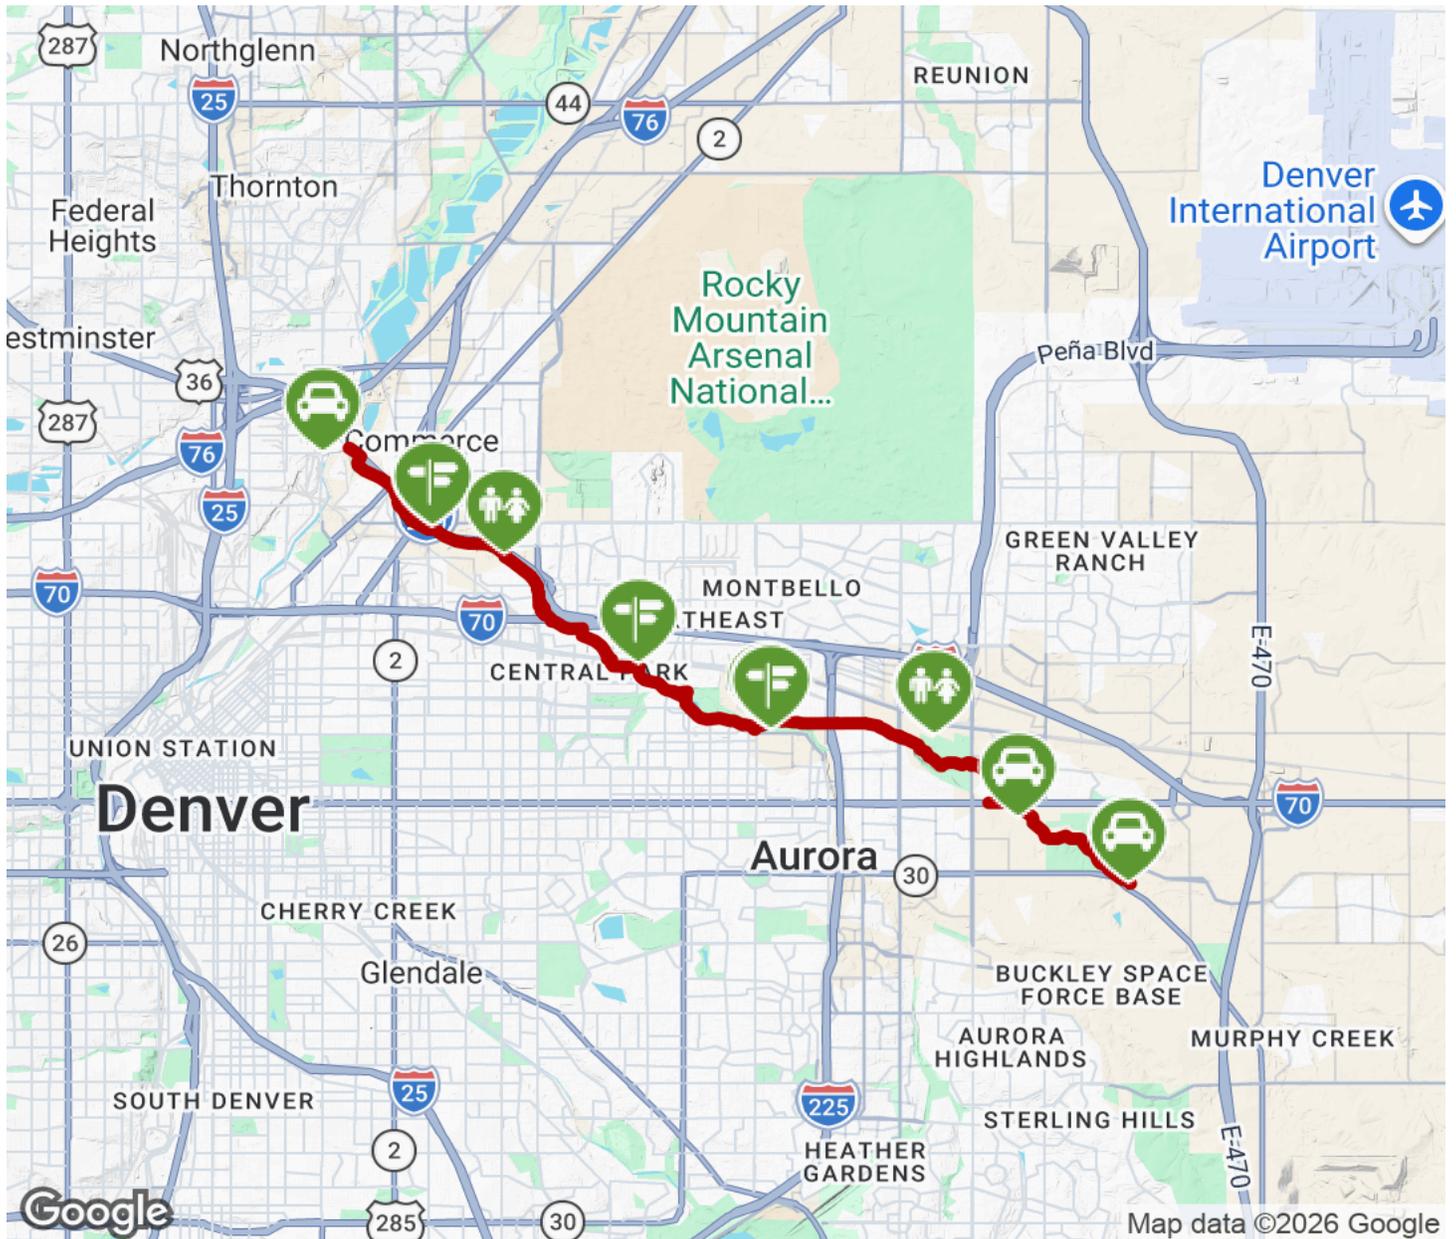

Fitzsimons: Sand Creek Park off Fitzsimons Parkway

Aurora: Star K Ranch and Morrison Nature Center: Park at Star K Open Space Park, just off Smith Road and Laredo, and take the trail through Star K Ranch to the Sand Creek Regional Greenway

Sand Creek Regional Greenway

Colorado

- Trailhead
- Restroom
- Parking
- Water Fountain
- Tunnel