The Estateoe Trail is a relatively flat trail, spanning almost 6 miles between downtown Brevard and Pisgah National Forest.

About the Route

The bike path has an asphalt surface for most of its length, except for the northwest 1 mile extension into the Pisgah National Forest (packed crushed gravel).

At its northwest end by the Davidson River Campground in Pisgah National Forest, the trail connects to the Art Loeb Trail, which meanders through the national forest. The northwest 1-mile portion of the Estateoe Trail follows the old Carr Lumber Company railway corridor through the Pisgah National Forest and runs along the scenic Davidson River.

Crossing Asheville Hwy/US-64, the trail parallels Ecusta Road south through Brevard. At the City of Brevard Sports Complex, the trail curves southwest around the sports fields and passes the Transylvania County Parks & Recreation Department. Tree line one side of the trail as it passes the City of Brevard Dog Park (824 Ecusta Rd) and the Jameson's Joy Memorial Fitness Park. The trail also connects several school.

Meandering west through the woods, the trail passes the Transylvania Regional Hospital. A trail spur heads east and comes out on Spruce Street and Mountain Industrial Road, where there is a brewery. Coming out of the woods, the trail briefly follows Allison Creek north. There is a paved connection with a short boardwalk bridge over the creek between the trail and Allison Road. Briefly following Hospital Drive, the trail then follows Asheville Hwy/US-64 south again.

At the intersection with Jackson Court, the trail heads southwest away from the highway and through downtown Brevard to its southern end on W Main Street. The southern portion of the route occupies about 0.5 mile of rail corridor.

The trail provides several access points to earthen-surfaced nature trails (foot traffic only) frequented by birdwatchers.
