Bells Gap Rail Trail

Pennsylvania

The Bells Gap Rail-Trail is really two trails in one—a smooth 2.1-mile southern section with crushed limestone surface, and a rougher, game lands and abruptly changes to an unimproved trail that consists of dirt, ballast, and grass. Approximately at mile 5.7, the grassy trail becomes a state game lands access road consisting of ballast and cinders for the remaining 0.6 miles. The trail ends at Route 865 in Lloydsville; there is no trailhead or parking here

The Bells Gap Rail-Trail is really two trails in one—a smooth 2.1-mile southern section with crushed limestone surface, and a rougher, more difficult northern section of 4.2 miles that is best-suited for mountain bike enthusiasts or hikers seeking a challenge.

Starting from the trailhead off of Igou Road at the southern terminus of the trail, the trail ascends at a rather steep grade for almost its entire 6.3 miles with a couple of locations where it levels off ever so briefly. Horseback riding is permitted on the grass edge of the trail.

Along the smooth 2.1 mile section of the trail, there are a plethora of benches along the way to rest and enjoy the scenery. A couple of the benches even have a canopy roof over them. After the first 2.1 miles, the trail enters state
