

2025

TrailLink Unlimited

Guides

Coyote Creek
Bikeway
California

Coyote Creek Bikeway

California

Running through large Los Angeles suburbs in both Los Angeles County and Orange County, the Coyote Creek Bikeway follows the

At its southern end, the trail connects to the 38-mile San Gabriel River Trail, which continues south to Seal Beach on the Pacific Ocean and north to Azusa at the base of the San Gabriel Mountains. Both trails are part of the OC Loop, a regional trail network that will one day span 66 miles throughout Orange County.

A shorter, disconnected segment of the Coyote Creek Bikeway runs from Buena Park through La Mirada to La Habra. Eventually, this section will be linked to the main trail, but first, a challenging crossing of Interstate 5 must be negotiated.

Running through large Los Angeles suburbs in both Los Angeles County and Orange County, the Coyote Creek Bikeway follows the channelized bank of the creek through residential and industrial neighborhoods. A good commuting or recreational option, it provides access from much of inland Orange County to the Pacific Ocean via the connecting San Gabriel River Trail, as well as to other destinations in the area.

Midway, you'll find one of the trail's gems: Cerritos Regional County Park, where trail users can refresh themselves with water, restrooms and a stroll around the lake. Picnic tables are available for lunch, and many athletic facilities round out the opportunities here: tennis courts, basketball courts, a gym, pool and exercise stations.

Coyote Creek Bikeway

California

States: California

Counties: Los Angeles, Orange

Length: 12 miles

Trail end points: San Gabriel River Trail (Long Beach) to Foster Rd. (Santa Fe Springs); S. La Mirada Blvd. (Buena Park) to Imperial Hwy. (La Habra)

Trail surfaces: Asphalt, Concrete

Trail category: Greenway/Non-RT

Trail activities: Bike, Inline Skating, Wheelchair Accessible, Walking

Parking & Trail Access

About midway along the trail, Cerritos Regional County Park (19700 Bloomfield Avenue in Cerritos) offers restrooms, water and parking.

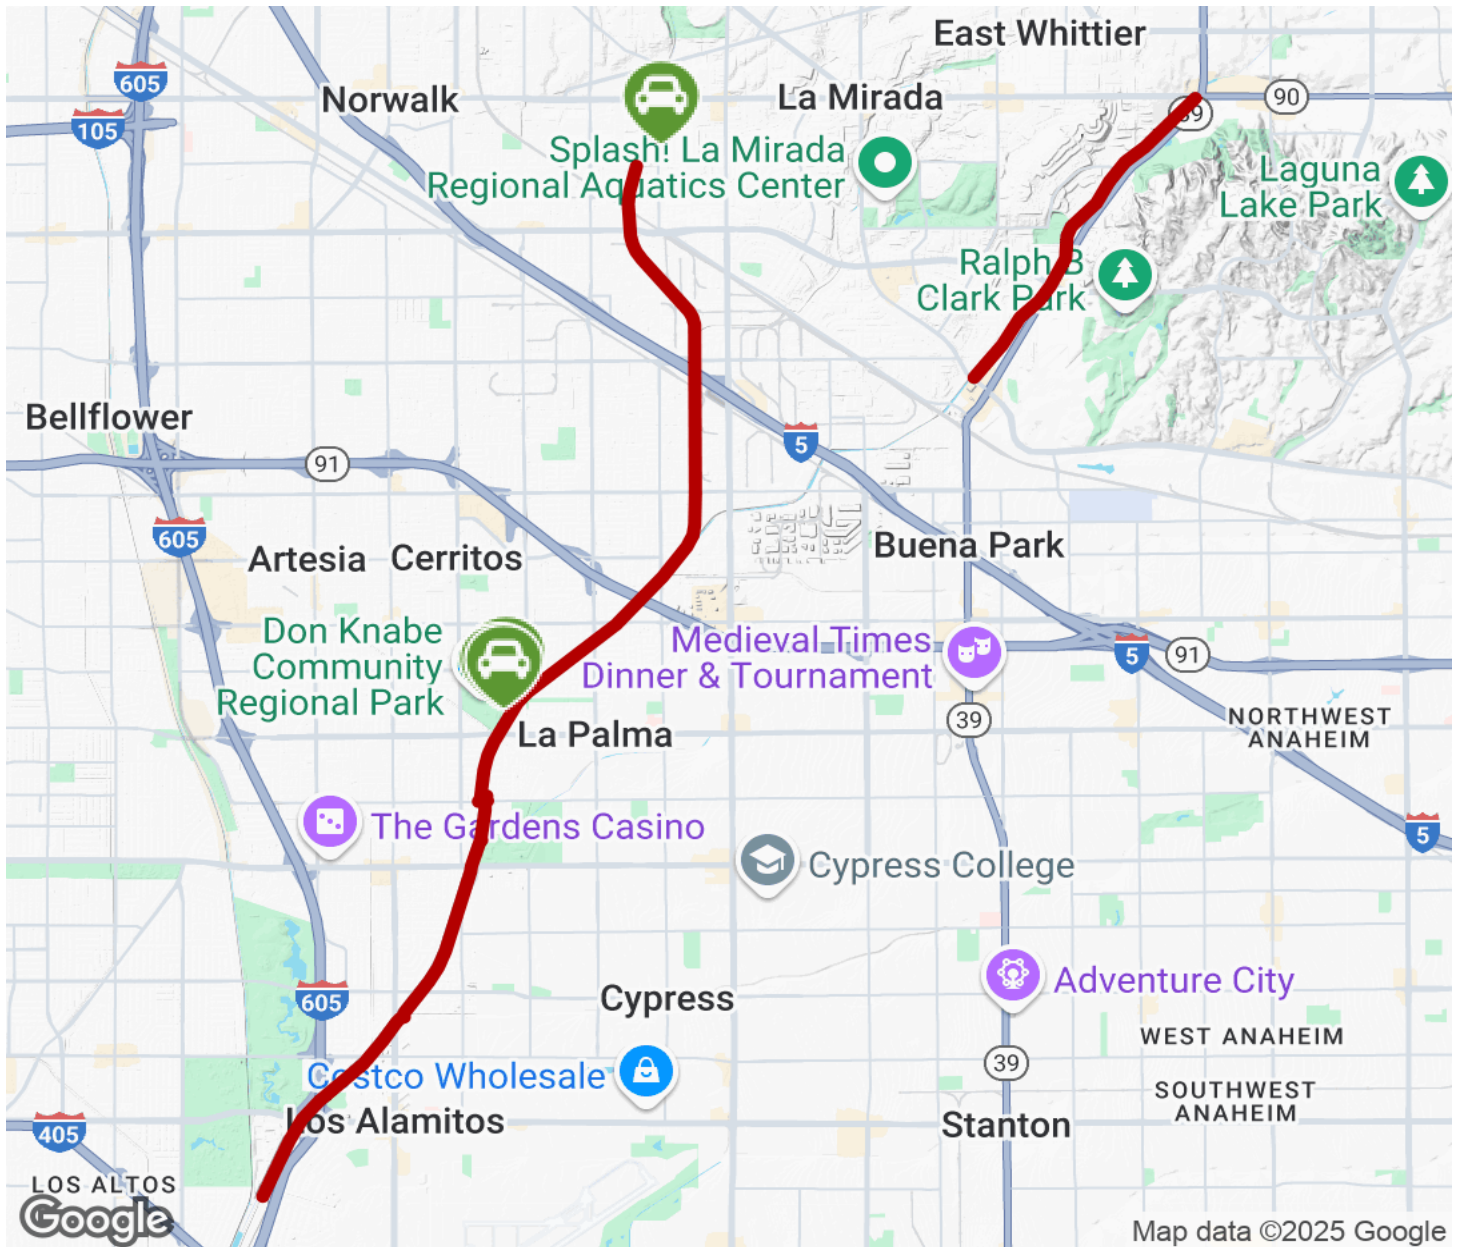

TrailLink
by Rails-to-Trails Conservancy

TrailLink.com

Coyote Creek Bikeway

California

Trailhead

Restroom

Parking

Water Fountain

Tunnel

TrailLink
by Rails-to-Trails Conservancy

TrailLink.com