The San Juan Creek Trail starts where the creek meets the Pacific Ocean at Doheny State Beach in scenic Dana Point. From there, it runs on the levee along the western bank of San Juan Creek to its confluence with Trabuco Creek at Descanso Park in San Juan Capistrano. It meets the Robert McCollum Memorial Bicycle Trail, also known as the Trabuco Creek Trail (East Bank), here at a trail bridge. Take that short path north to Los Rios Park and beyond.

Alternatively, continue east on the San Juan Creek Trail to reach far eastern neighborhoods of San Juan Capistrano, passing under Interstate 5 and running next to Calle Arroyo along the way. Several horse stables line the trail northeast of I-5, and a parallel soft-surface path for equestrian users runs from just west of La Novia Avenue to trail's end at Avenida Siega.
