This linear trail through the northern sections of bike-friendly Chico runs on the abandoned Sacramento Northern Railway right-of-way. The trail marks the northernmost stretch of the former railroad, which once ran commuter service from Chico to Oakland and San Francisco via Sacramento. Farther south in Chico, the Midway Bike Path occupies another portion of the same corridor.

The Chico Airport Bike Path extends from just north of downtown to Chico Municipal Airport on the northern edge of the city. A designated bike route on Oleander Avenue provides access to downtown and California State University, Chico (Chico State).
