trees, as well as prairie and grassland habitats and planted pine groves. You're likely to see lots of wildlife here, too.

The multi-use trail system accommodates cyclists, equestrians and hikers, and some trails are groomed in winter for skiing. Cyclists must stick to the designated bike trails. Horseback riding is not allowed in developed recreational areas, such as the youth group campground.

Connections

In several places, Waterfall Glen connects to the Southern Dupage County Regional Trail.

Overview

The trail system in Waterfall Glen Forest Preserve makes a loop around the entire park and totals 9.5 miles.

About the Route

The Waterfall Glen Forest Preserve is geologically significant, featuring glacier-carved rock ridges, ravines and wetland potholes, which are not found anywhere else in the county. The 700-acre forest is a contiguous wooded acreage interspersed with dolomite beneath a prairie habitat, home to rare plants.

As you explore the limestone-surfaced trail, you'll discover the woodlands with dominant oak and maple
