Harpeth River Greenway

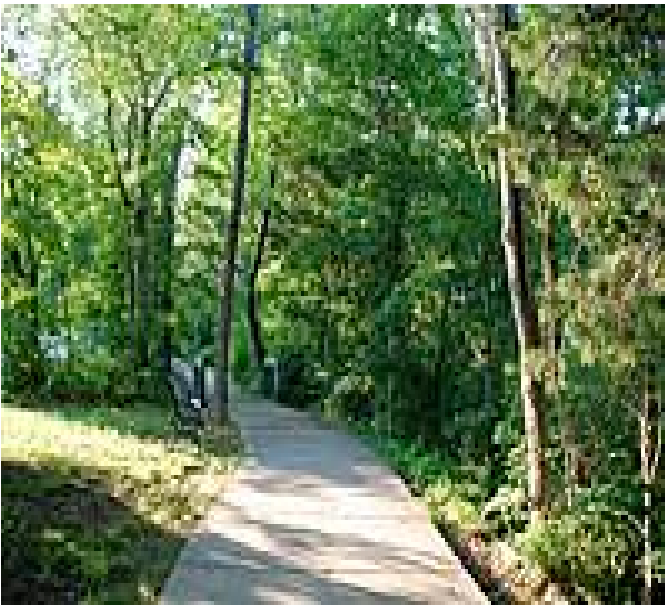

Tennessee

The Harpeth River Greenway is a series of four disconnected, multi-use trails that run along the Harpeth River in suburban

A third section of trail, only accessible from the HYSA soccer complex, crosses the river and runs in a loop through Bellevue Park, located on a bend of the Harpeth River. This section is 0.6 miles long.

The 3 southernmost sections of trail all connect. In the north, there is the Morton Mill section of trail which offers a boardwalk overlooking the river and primarily follows Morton Mill Rd for 1.4 miles.

The southernmost 5 miles (technically comprised of two sections of trail) run between Morton Mill Rd. and the gigantic Edith Warner Park, and meander alongside the Harpeth River.

The Harpeth River Greenway is a series of four disconnected, multi-use trails that run along the Harpeth River in suburban Nashville. The various segments serve a variety of communities and parks throughout the city. The entire route is paved and totals 9.1 miles.

About the Route

Leaving off from the north, the northernmost section of the trail is informally referred to as the Riverwalk Segment and runs for 1.7 miles through a subdivision alongside the Harpeth River.

After a significant gap in the trail, another short section of the trail also runs along the river and is only accessible from Kinley Ct. This section of the trail is 0.5 miles.
