The Paul Douglas and Crabtree Preserve Trail System connects two large nature preserves in northwestern Cook County.

The trail begins at the Old Stover Trailhead in the Crabtree Preserve, near the Nature Center – popular for its various programs and amenities. This western section of the trail passes through quiet preserve lands, on the way to Barrington Road. Then the trail continues eastward along Algonquin Road to Freeman Road, where it meets the Paul Douglas Forest Preserve Trail.

From this northwest corner of the Paul Douglas Trail, one can follow it on across a northern section all the way to Elmhurst Road, where it connects to the Palatine Trail. A longer, U-shaped portion of the Paul Douglas Trail goes south along
