The Seahorse Trail runs primarily along the western edge of Holts Landing State Park. The trail provides access to the park's campgrounds on its trek through dense forest. Connections to the hiking-only Sea Hawk Trail allow for longer loops through the park and spectacular views of Indian River Bay.

Though relatively short, the trail offers a surprisingly diverse array of scenery along its path; birdwatchers in particular will jump at the chance to spot a wide variety of waterfowl and songbirds from the trail as it transitions from the marshy grounds by the bay to the hardwood forest to the south.
