

2026

TrailLink Unlimited

Guides

Duck Creek Trail (TX)

Texas

Duck Creek Trail (TX)

Texas

The Duck Creek Trail, sometimes referred to as the Duck Creek Greenbelt, follows its namesake waterway between the Garland, where the trail connects Bass Park, Gatewood Park, and Cody Park, offering numerous amenities and the chance to view wildlife. From its southern end, trail users will also be able to hop onto the Mesquite Heritage Trail for an additional 4 miles of riding.

The Duck Creek Trail, sometimes referred to as the Duck Creek Greenbelt, follows its namesake waterway between the northeastern Dallas suburbs of Richardson and Garland, currently split into a separate segment of trail in each suburb.

Duck Creek Linear Park, through which the trail runs on its northern end, offers benches, drinking fountains and scenic places to picnic. The trail is also situated near Dartmouth Elementary and Apollo Junior High, providing children with a safe route to school. From the trail's northern tip, travelers can continue north on the Owens Trail, which runs just over a mile.

A nearly 6.5-mile gap along the creek exists between the northern segment and the trail's southern segment in

Duck Creek Trail (TX)

Texas

States: Texas

Counties: Dallas

Length: 4.6 miles

Trail end points: N. Plano Rd. (Richardson) to
I-30 Frontage Rd. (Garland)

Trail surfaces: Concrete

Trail category: Greenway/Non-RT

Trail activities: Bike, Inline

Skating, Walking, Wheelchair Accessible

Parking & Trail Access

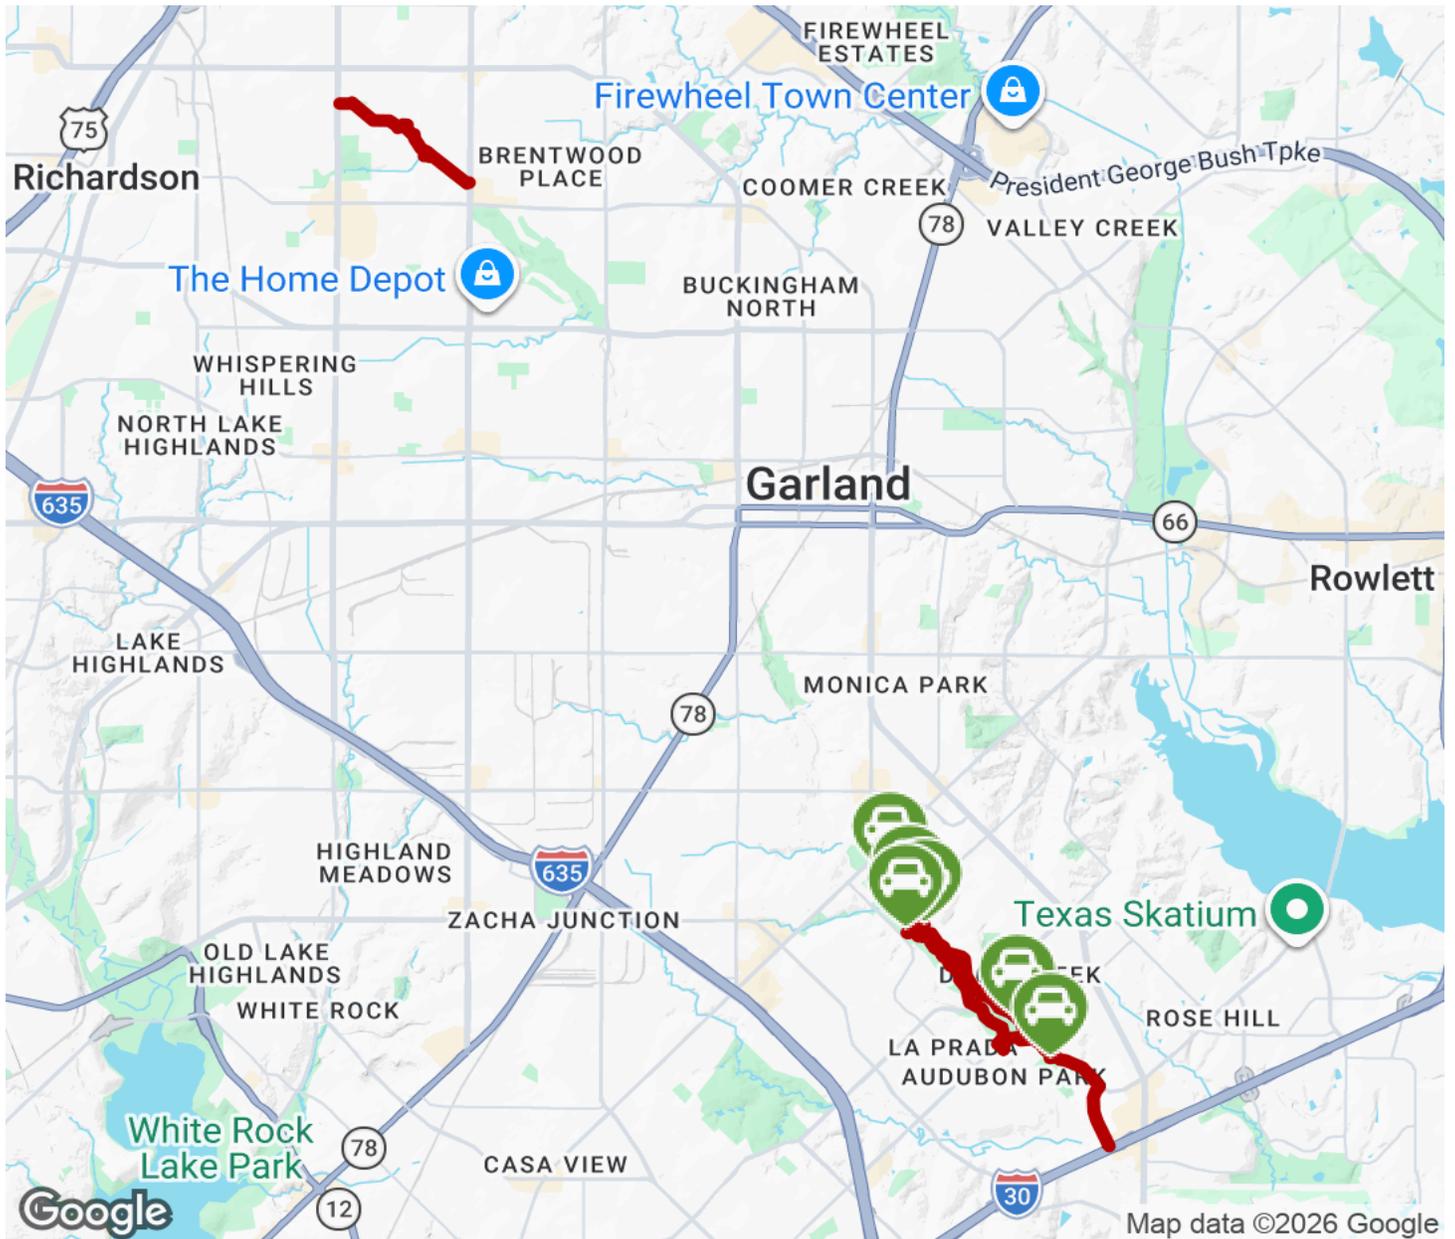

In Richardson, parking can be found at nearby Huffhines Park (1500 Apollo Road).

In Garland, parking is available in Bass Park (3901 Duck Creek Drive), Gatewood Park (4917 Duck Creek Drive), and Cody Park (5601 Duck Creek Drive).

Duck Creek Trail (TX)

Texas

Trailhead

Restroom

Parking

Water Fountain

Tunnel

TrailLink
by Rails-to-Trails Conservancy

TrailLink.com