At just over a mile, the Riverview Trail provides a short, easy route through northwestern Albuquerque with open vistas and neighborhood views. The trail begins at Mariposa Basin Park, a popular destination for families with its playgrounds, sports fields and picturesque pond - the Mariposa Basin Recreation Trail runs throughout the park, offering another lovely option for fun and exercise.

Running north from the park, the trail proceeds along a tree and shrub-lined corridor along the east side of Golf Course Road, then leaves the road to run along a fence behind large suburban homes in a pleasant and secluded corridor. Eventually, the trail comes to an end behind a cul-de-sac, where it links up with the scenic Piedras Marcadas Trail, enabling trail users to extend their journey to the east or the northwest.
