The Mesa Springs Greenway is a north-south route along the western side of Interstate 25. A sound wall between the highway and the trail helps makes the journey more pleasant. The pathway is also wide and level, making for an easy trip through the heart of Colorado Springs. The trail traverses quiet residential neighborhoods and is dotted with trees.

Just south of Dale Street, a trail spur can take you across a pedestrian bridge over I-25 to Monument Valley Park. Worth a visit, the park features beautiful gardens and ponds, sports facilities, picnic areas and walking trails. From there, you can also hop on the Pikes Peak Greenway Trail to access many of the city's other attractions, such as the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center and the Money Museum, as well as Colorado College.
