The 47-mile Greater Cheyenne Greenway touches nearly every part of Cheyenne, Wyoming. Portions of the trail go through downtown, while other sections wind through suburban neighborhoods.

Highlights along the route include the Cheyenne Botanic Gardens and Lions Park, Airport access and Holliday Park. At Holliday Park, one of 25 behemoth steam engines is displayed and preserved. 'Big Boy' steam engines were the biggest in the world when they were built for Union Pacific in the 40's. Cheyenne's own Big Boy was retired in 1958 and relocated to the park in 1963.

In the south of Cheyenne, the Allison Draw Greenway is included as part of the Greater Cheyenne Greenway and is managed by Laramie County.
