The Marquette Trail is part of the Marquette Greenway, which will one day span more than 50 miles through Northwest Indiana, connecting communities along the southern shore of Lake Michigan.

The 2-mile Marquette Trail offers picturesque views of the forests and nature surrounding Lake Michigan as it travels through the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore. This scenic route follows a former rail line through a variety of diverse habitats, including hardwood forests, wetlands, and rolling dunes. Along the way, trail-goers can enjoy catching a glimpse of the water birds, deer, lizards, and other wildlife that call this area home.

An upcoming new section of the Marquette Greenway will span 3 miles in the Town of Burns Harbor.
