to the River Des Peres Greenway Trail south of I-55.

The River Des Peres Greenway Trail provides a flat, paved route along the River Des Peres Drainage Channel in southwestern St. Louis. Although this urban trail is seldom crowded, one of its drawbacks is that it follows the busy Des Peres Parkway, so you will experience traffic views and sounds on your journey.

Mid-trail, a spur across the river on a pedestrian bridge will take travelers along the tree-lined Christy Greenway up to Holly Hills Avenue. The Carondelet Connector links the River des Peres Trail to Carondelet Park with its two scenic lakes. The trail ends near the mouth of the channel where it meets the Mississippi River.

In 2020, an additional two miles of trail and a bridge were added to Grant's Trail, completing that trail's connection
