At Brown Park, the trail ends for a moment before quickly picking back up about a half a mile further south along Atlanta Rd. SE. This section of the trail (sometimes called the Atlanta Road Path) follows Atlanta Rd. NW for over 3 miles until reaching Spring Road in Smyrna.

The trail here verges east and continues for nearly 3 miles along Spring Rd. once again with signage guiding users, although different signage is used as trail users move into the City of Smyrna. These signs use the full name, "Kennesaw Mountains to Chattahoochee River Trail". This is where the M2R trail connects with the Akers Mill Trail.

Connections

The Mountain to River Trail connects trail users to the Bob Callan-Rottenwood Creek Trail and Akers Mill Trail near the southern trail endpoint.

The Mountain to River Trail, also known as the Kennesaw Mountain to Chattahoochee River Trail or the `M2R trail aims to be Marietta's connection between two NPS units, the Kennesaw Mountain National Battlefield Park and the Chattahoochee River Recreation Area.

About the Route

Starting from the northern endpoint at the Kennesaw Battlefields National Park, the trail heads south in Marietta along a combination of off-road trails and on-road bike lanes. While the route through Marietta can be confusing, most of the route is marked with signage and maps labeled M2R at convenient locations along the way. An impressive and colorful bridge takes us over the North Marietta Pkwy NW.
