Boardman Lake Loop Trail
Michigan

Boardman Lake Loop Trail
Michigan

The Boardman Lake Trail connects Traverse City neighborhoods, businesses, two parks and the district's library on a scenic route

Another great spot along the trail is Hull Park at the north end of the lake, which provides access to the water with a boathouse and dock. The trail rounds the lake and ends at Lake Avenue in a commercial and residential area.

To continue your journey, a short diversion in Hull Park can take you to the Traverse Area Recreation Trail (TART), which travels 11 miles across the city and links popular attractions like parks, beaches and a zoo. Take a trail spur north to Franklin Street/Railroad Place and go east a short distance along the roadway to reach the TART.

The Boardman Lake Trail connects Traverse City neighborhoods, businesses, two parks and the district's library on a scenic route along the eastern shoreline of a large natural lake. Completely encircling the lake, the trail is 4 miles and is mostly paved with sections of crushed limestone and boardwalk.

Medalie Park offers a nice place to begin your journey with a picnic shelter, restrooms and river overlooks. As the trail winds north around the lake it heads through dense woodlands. At the southern end of the lake, the Boardman Lake Loop Trail enters its most scenic portion as it crosses the lake on the Boardman Lake Bridge, giving trail users scenic panoramic view of the lake for a short section.
