The Riverside Trail winds along the west bank of the St.

Joseph River for just over 3 miles in northern Indiana's South Bend. Several benches along the way allow you to take in the beautiful river views.

At the northern end of the trail, a pedestrian bridge will take you across the river to another trail paralleling Darden Road, which leads to the Lasalle Trail section of the IN-MI River Valley Trail.

Midway, you'll see Pinhook Park across from Riverside Drive; the park has a small lake, playgrounds, fishing spots and places to picnic. North of the park, you'll pass under Interstate 80 and travel through Riverside Park.

The southern end of the trail ends at Brownfield Park, near the intersection of Riverside Drive and Angela Boulevard. North of this trailhead, the trail travels through tree-lined residential areas, passing Keller Park, which offers restrooms, picnic tables, a playground and boat launch.

To connect back to other parts of the main trail, trail users can turn left near the southern end of the trail along S. Angela Blvd. to reach the northern end of the East Bank Trail \(IN\).
