The 1.6-mile Sabercat Creek Trail can be found along its tree-lined namesake waterway in the Mission San Jose community of Fremont, a coastal California city of the San Francisco Bay.

About the Route

The paved pathway runs through a former paleontological dig site, where thousands of fossil specimens have been collected, including mammoths, saber-toothed cats, wolves, giant sloths, and cave bears. Near its eastern end, Mission San Jose Park offers restrooms, picnic tables, a playground, and athletic facilities.
