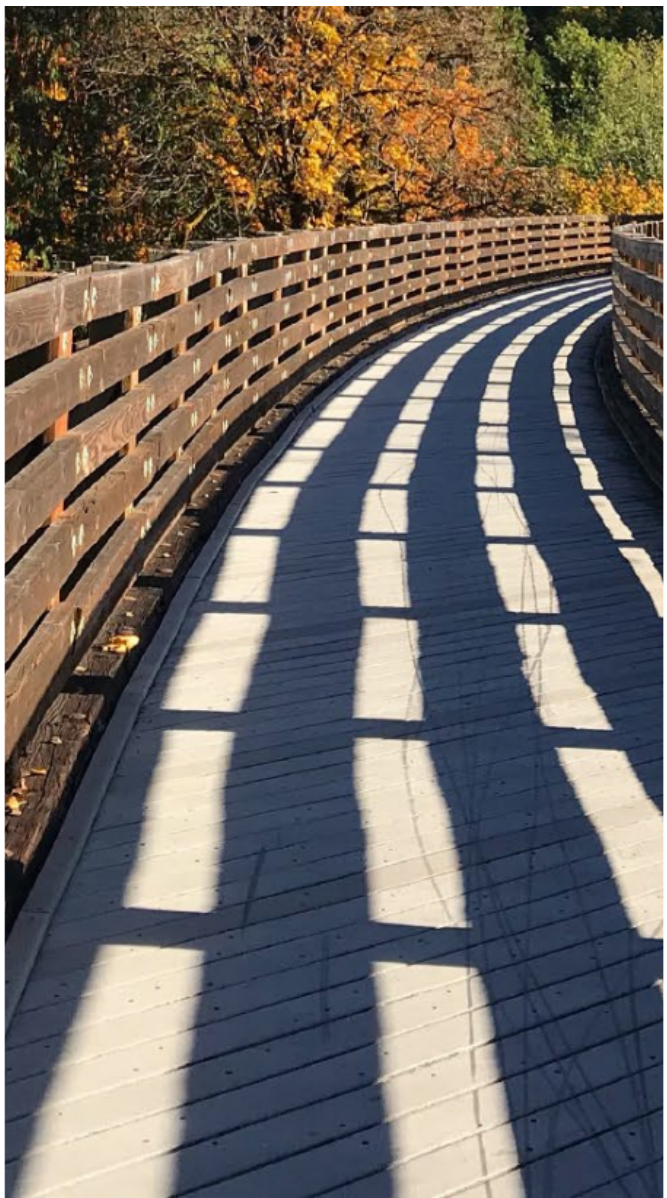
TrailLink
by Rails-to-Trails Conservancy

2025

TrailLink Unlimited

Guides



Skippack Trail

Pennsylvania

Skippack Trail

Pennsylvania

The Skippack Trail traverses a township of the same name in eastern Pennsylvania, about 40 miles northwest of Philadelphia. Its

The Skippack Trail traverses a township of the same name in eastern Pennsylvania, about 40 miles northwest of Philadelphia. Its western end connects to the Perkiomen Trail, a 19-mile north-south route from Green Lane to Oaks. From there, the pathway follows the Perkiomen Creek for its first half mile before heading east past a residential area. Here, you'll head up a large hill, under a set of power lines.

At about mile 2 from the Perkiomen Trail, the Skippack Trail splits; one branch goes north to the picturesque Village of Skippack. The trail's eastern end offers wide open landscapes and ends near Evansburg State Park, a scenic recreational area bisected by Skippack Creek.

Skippack Trail

Pennsylvania

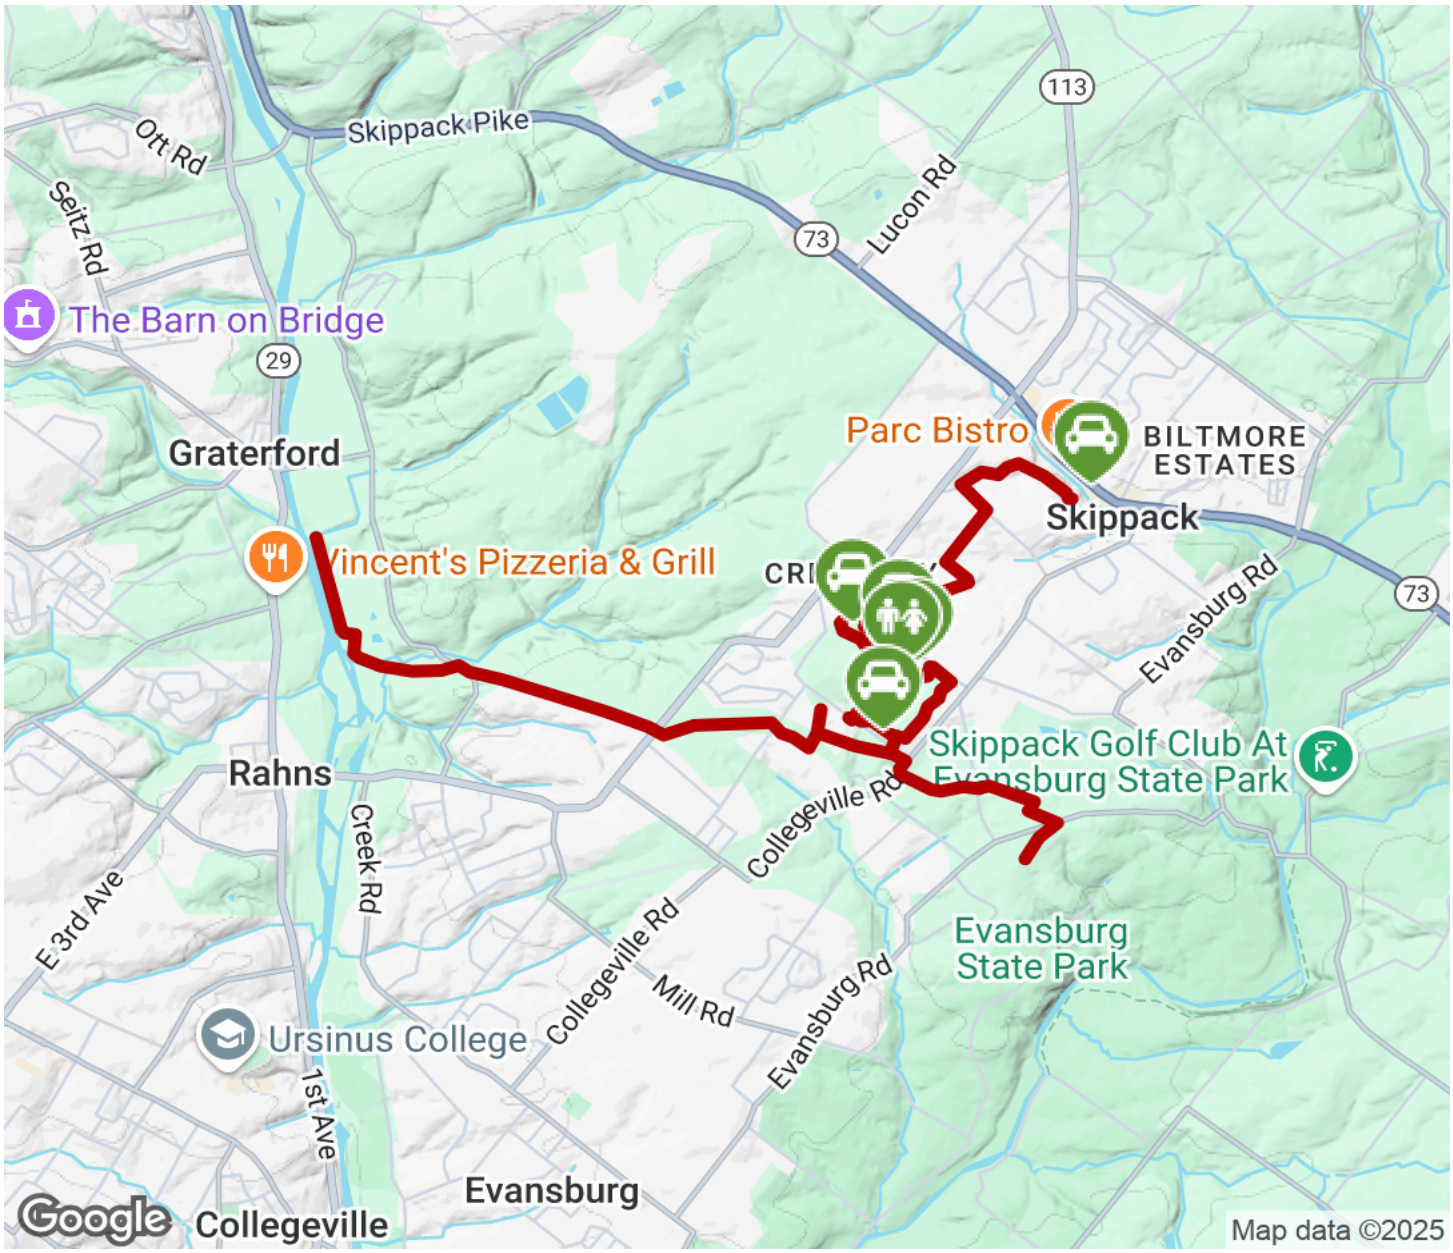
States: Pennsylvania
Counties: Montgomery
Length: 3.3miles
Trail end points: Perkiomen Trail to Thompson Road
Trail surfaces: Asphalt
Trail category: Greenway/Non-RT
Trail activities: Bike,Walking

Parking & Trail Access

Parking can be found in Palmer Park, just north of the trail off Heckler Road (about 2.5 miles east of the Perkiomen Trail connection).

Skippack Trail

Pennsylvania



Trailhead | Restroom | Parking | Water Fountain | Tunnel