Palatka-to-St. Augustine State Trail

Florida

Overview The Palatka-to-St. Augustine State Trail runs 21 miles between the southwest outskirts of St. Augustine and Palatka,

Much of the trail follows State Route 207, hence its former name as the State Road 207 Rail-Trail. The surrounding landscape is mostly woodlands, fields, and farms. When the trail passes through the communities along the route, there are residences, shops, restaurants, and more near the trail.

Connections

Long-term plans include a connection to the Palatka-to-Lake Butler State Trail as part of a developing 260-mile, five-county regional network known as the St. Johns River-to-Sea Loop. The network is part of the East Coast Greenway.

Overview

The Palatka-to-St. Augustine State Trail runs 21 miles between the southwest outskirts of St. Augustine and Palatka, passing through the communities of Vermont Heights, Elkton, Armstrong, Spuds, and Hastings in northeastern Florida. The paved trail is 12ft-wide.

About the Route

The trail's northeast end is an out-and-back, but the trail is accessible from several trailheads in Vermont Heights, at Armstrong Park, at Cora C. Harrison Preserve and on East River Road.
